Dear Eric:

Enclosed is the latest copy of my TAX TOKEN TALLY. I wondered if you had received the forms I had sent to you on the Missouri counterstamped tokens. Although I have enough work to keep me busy on the book and am not in a serious need for them at the present time, I am concerned as to whether or not I would need to duplicate the forms.

Sincerely yours,

Dear Eric,

Enclosed are the two latest copies of the TALLY to keep your file up to date. I am sending them to your company box because I don't know if you received the other material through your personal (E.P. N. Foundation) box.

The book on sales tax tokens is almost completed. The two most complicated chapters, Illinois and Washington, are virtually done. After handling the odds and ends, I will begin revising, rewriting, and standardizing my format to produce a final draft. It feels good to say this after nine years of work.

Would you be willing to look over the manuscript for possible suggestions before I go into the final draft? Would you also consider writing a short foreword to the work?

Publication plans are still rather vague. In all likelihood we will publish it ourselves in a number limited to the small practical market which has developed.

I hope to see you soon at your annual talk to the MNS.

Sincerely yours,

Miko P.

Dear Eric:

If you have a chance, please look over the survey cards for the counter-stamped cardboard Missouri sales tax tokens. The American Tax Token Society has published two monographs and a third is about to be offered. I would like the counter-stamped Missouri cardboards to be the subject of the fourth monograph. Since I have recently been elected President of the American Tax Token Society, it would be fitting for me to make this sort of contribution within the near future.

You ought to be overjoyed and very proud to have your "Chits, Chiselers, and Funny Money" completed. You have given birth to a comprehensive and carefully researched project. I congratulate you on its quality.

How was I to know you put out FMSP1. I think you ought to send me one.

As to the letter referring to the other projects I have some historical Missouri token material. I was thinking of this as part of Missouri numismatic history which you mention as being uncoordinated. Who, other than Ron Horstmann, Bruce Smith and I have been working on all or part of such a project? I would be most interested as I have worked over a span of 35 years to gather the data.

Best wishes for continued success,

Enclosed are the two photo copies that you requested. I believe that the one receipt can be used as a major argument for the company store economy in Missouri. It's especially interesting in light of the fact that punch cards are known from the same place during the same time period.

As regards the saloon token that you described to me, I do have two older tokens to trade, as follows:

F. Linck's GF 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢ 927 Cass Av. - round aluminum

Dear Eric,

Enclosed are the two tokens you were interested in. Either one is the equivalent to the F. W. Lippmann token. They are both from the turn of the century period. Perhaps sometime in the future you will run across a item of interest for me . Asurprise in the mail always brightens a collector's day.

I hope that you found the xerox copies useful. There was nothing significant on the back of the copy sent to me. What exactly is the Palmer Lead booklet referred to in your note?

Thanks for being willing to write for an anniversary publication for the M.N.S. if the Board decides that is what it wants to do.

I obtained and then mislaid a second specimen of the Lippmann token and hope that this duplicate will balance our trade of last year, as it is scarce if you didn't have it by then.

In the Presidential Coin and Antique Company Auction for June 25, 1988 I note that Lot 077A is the scarce early M. A. Abraham, Weston, MO token. If you do not have it you may wish to bid.

The Palmer Lead booklet I wrote about is scrip from Missouri.

I haven't had a chance to do any investigation on the counterstamp. I am presuming that the half dollar has at least some moderate wear. I really have a hunch that you may have a personal pocket piece which may have been produced after the Civil War rather than before.

We've been rather occupied with school affairs and getting adjusted from my wife's having undergone surgery last November. She was able to go back to work January 2.

By the way, it looks as if the MNS may make some substantial advances in developing the library. I think that over the next several years it will become a very important resource for the numismatic community.

As soon as I get a chance to go downtown, I'll try to check on H. M. Brown.

Dear Mr. Newman:

This is regarding permission for the reproduction of colonial Rhode Island currency from your book on the "Early Paper Money of America" about which I spoke to you on the phone this week.

I would like to reproduce the front and back of the bill which appears on page 350, printed by Southwick and Barber in 1786. This is for use in an historical monograph on "Solomon Southwick, Rhode Island printer." I expect to produce no more than one hundred copies, primarily for libraries and those interested in printing history. As I mentioned, I have made reproductions from the book and will be careful to credit it as you specify. I will also supply a copy of the publication.

Could you also tell me, for information in my checklist, the names of specific libraries or collections which own a) the individual bills or b) complete sheets? I'd be happy just to have whatever information you have handy. Also, I am secretary for our New England Chapter of the American Printing History Association and would just like to say again how useful and interesting I found your book to be. Thank you very much for your help.

Dear Ms. Phelps:

Your letter of June 29, 1983 confirms our understanding. I think this organization qualifies as a library where your publication belongs.

Another party who works in printing history is Joseph Lasser, 522 Fifth Avenue, New York, NY 10036, and a copy for him would be very properly placed. He has written on the Green family of printers.

The 1786 Rhode Island bills are reasonably common and most collectors of pre-Constitutional paper money would have some denominations or a whole set. We have a full set. Full sheets of 8 bills are scarce. We have the four low denominations on one sheet and the four high denominations on another sheet. I know of no sheet of the middle denominations.

Your nice comments about my book are much appreciated, and if I can furnish any information on paper money printing, please do not hesitate to outline your needs.

If you want to own an original example of a 1786 R.I. note, I'll see what I can do.

Sincerely yours,

Dear Mr. Newman:

Thank you very much for your accomodating letter and permission to reproduce the Rhode Island bills. Since you have some sheets of the 1786 issue, could you also confirm for me the format for them, which I derive here from your listing in Appendix A of your book (and the necessary positioning for printing on both sides without moving the type)? I particularly want to be sure of the "double sheets" - are the bills all right-side up as you look at the sheet?

Face		Back		Back		Face		Enter way like this

				40	60	60	40
2s6d	9d	2s6d	9d	20	30	30	20

I would indeed like very much to have one or two bills from this issue, and would appreciate your suggestion of a source. Thank you again.

Dear Ms. Phelps:

To answer your inquiry of July 19, 1983, I am sending you photocopies of each side of each sheet I have. The paper is flipped on its axis in the printing process rather than rotated or slid sideways as you seem to surmise.

The reason for this is so one side of the sheet could be hung up to dry before the other side was printed. As you will see, the backs were printed simultaneously with the fronts on its bills where backs were used. Please note the serial number on the bills in order to make it clear.

Dear Mr. Phillips:

I read with great interest the article you wrote in Coins in 1972, with respect to scales. I did not know whether you collect scales but thought it would be worthwhile for us to contact one another.

For many years, as part of my enjoyment of Numismatics, I have collected American coin scales, but was so intrigued by the English box fold scales that I began collecting them. I would like to add to that collection some additional items as I have only seven different box scales at the present time. Do you know where I could acquire any?

I am also missing a swinging balance from one of the scales, and if you have any broken scales where this part might be available, I have a broken scale with other parts available.

The last one I bought three months ago was from a little shop on Islington High Street in London. I have found them in the midlands in antique shops, but unfortunately I do not get over often enough to look for them.

I believe that they are such a fascinating part of Numismatic history that I would like to go further into the matter and hope you can give me some suggestions.

I have read with interest the book entitled "Money Scales and Weights" by Sheppard and Musham published in 1923, and wonder whether those folding scales began as early as 1780 as they indicate.

I would have written you direct, but the magazine Coins suggested that I write you through them.

Enclosed are the copies of our small change notes issued by the Corporation of New York in 1814 and 1815. I am not sure whether or not you are interested in the larger denominations but I've included copies of them as well. I have gone through our New York collection and these are the only examples I can find.

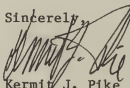

I was very interested to see the name of John Pintard, who is very active in the organization of historical societies in New York in the late 18th and early 19th centuries.

I remember Mr. Rosenthal and worked with him for a number of years here in the library as he worked with the numismatic collection. Mr. Lindheim still writes a column for the Cleveland Plain Dealer on numismatics; it's been several years since he has last visited the Society.

Because you are so knowledgeable, I would appreciate any suggestions you might make as to which auction house might be the best to consign duplicate and surplus obsolete paper money. We have disposed of our non-American coin collection and may, at some point in the future, wish to dispose of the excess paper money collection which is really serving no useful purpose in our vaults. Any suggestions you would care to offer would be deeply appreciated. Again, let me emphasize that we do not have any current plans to move in this direction but would like to have your recommendation on file.

I am though, interested in the view on the 1817

I am the author of a book about western americana ("Wild West Saga" ca. 300 pg. 65 illustrations) which will be published in August 1959 by Deutsche Verlags Anstalt, Stuttgart, West-Germany. With the same publisher was reached last year a tentative understanding to submit this fall a MS for a second book on the subject: "USA, the first one hundred years" (which however will not be the title)
Whether it will be accepted or rejected is entirely up to the DVA, but the MS has to be in printing shape. For that very purpose goes the illustrative material, I am at the moment busy gathering together. It is, admittedly a shot into the blue sky and like the valiant crew at the Cape Canaveral Base, "The Owner of the 1817 Note" and I, have to wait, whether this rockett will fizzle or succeed.

I still hope you will be able to furnish me with one of the addresses of one of the descendants of either Au-

Dear Mr. Newman:

Thank you very much for your letter of March 11th. Concerning the note of 1817, I am interested solely in the early view of the city, and not in the note itself. I wish to use it as an illustration of what early St.Louis looked like, for the town plays a prominent part in one of the chapters of my MS. I am therefore seeking a photostatic copy, glossy print, 8x10, of the vignette.

If my memory does not deceive me, I recollect having seen a copy of it in one of the issues of "Early Glimpses", that little series of historical comments published by the Missouri Historical Society. In that case a negative might be found somewhere in the archives. I would appreciate it too, if you could spot out some of the buildings on the vignette. At any rate, let me kindly know what my expenses amount to and to whom remittance should be made by money order.

Thanking you once more for your very helpful co-operation, I remain Sir,

Sincerely yours

Dear Mr. Pinna:

We were very pleased to be able to help you by furnishing you a copy of the earliest view of St. Louis for your forthcoming book. The photographer is billing you directly.

You may be interested in knowing that the telephone books of St. Louis for many years have carried this same view and there is enclosed one of those pages.

This picture of St. Louis was written up in "Glimpses of the Past", July, 1941, which gives all the detail as to the identification of the buildings. We are giving you, on an overlay, some of the principal buildings in the view.

We are glad to be able to be of assistance and look forward to reading your publication when it is available.

Dear Eric,

It was nice to speak with you again this morning. I hope you have a great birthday, and please extend my good wishes to Evelyn.

Per our conversation, the safest method for shipping the coins is by U.S. Registered Mail, Insured. I would ask that you only insure the packages for $5000 each. This places enough value on the package for it to be carefully handled by the post office, but not so much as to draw too much unnecessary attention. Our insurance policy offers coverage in excess of this amount up to $200,000 per package.

I would recommend that the 1792 Washington President, T below bust be sent as a single coin package.

The other three items you mentioned should be fine as a three-piece package. Should you add more pieces to the list, just keep the $200,000 per package coverage in mind and divide the pieces accordingly.

The packages should be addressed as follows:

John Pack
P.O. Box 1804
Wolfeboro, NH 03894

I will let you know when they arrive.

Thanks again, and all good wishes to you.

Best regards,

John Pack

Dear Dave:

I thank you for your notifying me about the use of images of my US 1796 and 1797 silver dollars in Bowers' book. I was unaware of that situation but because I always am glad to help anyone with a bona fide project. It makes little difference whether it happens or happened directly or indirectly. Dave B. knows my point of view. As I told you all I did was to select the major varieties in the best condition from the Green group. I hope you celebrated Independence Day with independence. Eric

In a message dated 7/5/2008 12:03:39 P.M. Eastern Daylight Time, [REDACTED]

Eric and Tom, you may already know this, but in case that you do not I am forwarding this information.

All of the EPN Collection 1796 Dollars and 1797 Dollars are plate coins in the Bowers Silver Dollar Book. Both obverse and reverse photos match the photos of these coins that Rory took. Thus there are six Bowers Plate coins as part of the EPN early dollar collection.

Please let me know if you have any questions. Thanks.

Dave

As I told you, I believe that the Saxton Ruling Machine principle might be applicable to your son's work on glass. It will create a three dimensional effect on a flat surface. I am enclosing the description of how this process was used in 1842 from a book I have in my library. I am also enclosing a photocopy of the illustrations made with the machine to show you how superb the work can be. The original of the illustration is much better than the photocopy.

Dear Mr. Newman:

Perhaps you can supply the answers to some questions on the Continental Currency dollar of 1776.

While it would seem that neither the dollar, nor the Fugio cents, are legal tender, I'm puzzled as to why replicas of these pieces aren't on the market (as in the case of so many other pieces - Pine Tree shilling, etc.)

I've seen a brief reference to restrikes of the Continental dollar that appeared in connection with the 1876 Philadelphia Exposition. The question is: did the federal government authorize these restrikes? If not, would it be permissible for anyone to issue replicas?

At the present time, I'm endeavoring to find a restrike; either in copper, or otherwise.

Any information you may offer will be greatly appreciated, Mr. Newman.

Fraternally yours,

Mr. Homer C. Platt

Dear Mr. Platt:

I am glad to answer your letter of September 4, 1960.

Relative to the Continental Dollar, I should imagine you would want to obtain an original one. The only replicas which were made were made by Haseltine for the 1876 exposition in Philadelphia and are rather scarce. They were not authorized by the Federal government. If you have in mind issuing of replicas, I know of nothing to stop you as the coin in question was never formally approved by any Federal law. A complete description of the replica is in Kenney's pamphlet entitled "Struck Copies of American Coins". Likewise, a reference to the struck copy is in my pamphlet on the 1776 Continental Dollar, published in 1952. There have never been any restrikes.

As to the Fugio copper, these are common enough so that anyone who wants one can obtain an original. There are restrikes from certain of these dies, the most common being the New Haven restrike. Also a replica which was issued by a gentleman in New Jersey. This coin is an official issue of the United States government and, in my opinion, would not be proper to use as the basis of a replica.

If I can be of further help to you, please advise me.

Sincerely yours,

Ms. Pamela Plumb

Dear Pam:

Evelyn and I have often talked about your successes. You may remember your mother and Evelyn were instrumental in starting many wonderful projects for the public good just as you have been doing. Your grandmother, Mimi, came up to our riverhouse in Alton recently and we enjoyed her as always. At a dinner party here, we talked to the St. Louis Plumbs about you. So, hello, after 20 years.

I am writing a study of the publications on counterfeit money written by Lanban Heath, who was born in Bow, New Hampshire, and who died in Boston. I have just learned that he lived for a short time in Portland, Maine, around 1860. He had left for Boston by 1864. Would you be nice enough to suggest someone who might find out when and at what address he did business or lived in Portland. Perhaps you have city directories, or there may be census, tax, church or military records which would help solve the problem. I hope this will not be a nuisance to you and that you will know exactly to whom you should toss this letter (not the circular file). I would be very grateful for any information about Mr. Heath which anyone could locate.

The best of everything to you and your family.

Cordially,

Eric P. Newman
